VACANCY BY BEDROOM

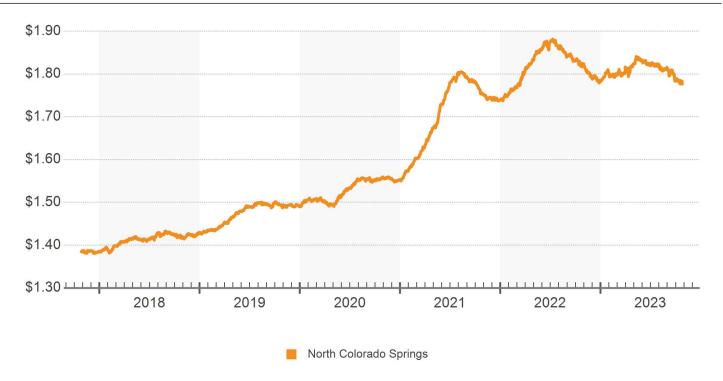

North Colorado Springs, where 20% of new construction is occurring, ranks at the bottom of submarkets in terms of annual rent growth, decreasing by 2.4%. In the current uncertain climate, renters are seeking out affordability. Rent growth in North Colorado Springs has decelerated swiftly. CoStar's daily asking rent series show rents have contracted -2.1% year-over-year, down from the double-digit annual rent gains experienced in late 2021. Average rent for a one-bedroom apartment in the submarket is now $1,540/month compared to the market average of $1,440/month. North Colorado Springs has some of the highest rents in the market and has recorded some of the largest declines in the last year.

An elevated construction pipeline is projected to push vacancies to record levels by 2025, which will further weigh on rent growth. The four- and five-star assets are competing with new supply hitting the market, resulting in increased concession activity to drive demand.

Buyers have shown interest in North Colorado Springs multifamily properties and have scooped up assets over the years. But while investors have historically been active here, deal flow has pulled back over the past 12 months. Annual sales volume has averaged $185 million over the past five years, and the 12-month high for deal volume over that period reached $320 million. But the recorded volume over the past year totaled just $10.8 million, which is the lowest figure over that five-year stretch.

Market pricing, based on the estimated price movement of all apartment properties in the submarket, sat at $240,533/unit during the fourth quarter of 2023. That price has dropped on a year-over-year basis, although the level is still above the average for the Colorado Springs region. The market cap rate has edged up in the past 12 months to 5.0%, and it's fairly similar to the metro average. The current rate is above the submarket's five-year average.
